HORACE DRIVER EARNS PROJECT MANAGEMENT PROFESSIONAL CREDENTIAL

Newtown Square, Pa., 20 July, 2010 — Horace Driver of Las Vegas, NV has earned the Project Management Institute's most recognized and respected global credential -- the Project Management Professional, or PMP®. The PMP® credential recognizes demonstrated knowledge and skill in leading and directing project teams and in delivering project results within the constraints of schedule, budget and resources.

The PMP credential is one of five PMI certifications that enable professionals to start, build, and advance their careers in project, program, and portfolio management. The PMP credential recognizes project managers who have demonstrated competence in leading and directing project teams and in delivering project results within the constraints of schedules, budgets, and resources. PMP-certified project managers – who have completed at least 4,500 hours leading and directing project tasks – are responsible for all aspects of a project for the life of that project. Recent research demonstrates that project managers with a PMP credential deliver better project performance, which translates into increased efficiencies, improved organizational alignment, and measurable financial savings for organizations.

Driver is a member of the Southern Nevada Chapter of PMI and is employed as Regional General Manager of the Southwest Circle Group, Inc. Driver is an Auburn University Alumni, holds a Project Management Certificate with Kaplan University, received company awards for outstanding and special achievement, Project of the Year, and is a recognized lifetime member of the Cambridge Who's Who.

About Project Management Institute (PMI)
